Cyclists from "The Top of the Hill Gang" have been touring the area this week, on 40-50 mile jaunts along our local road-riding loops. The club, composed of active people over 50, is headquartered in Massachusetts but includes members from as far away as Florida. Here they take a break at a popular stopping point, the Lovejoy Covered Bridge in Andover.

Chef writing recipe for dealing with labor shortage

Includes a dollop of Internet

By REBECCA ZICARELLI

The food industry is being transformed by technology, tightening labor markets, and evolving trends. Randall M. Smith, C.F.E., the new award-winning chef at the Sudbury Inn, works to take advantage of those transformations.

Smith said his philosophy is to "Work smarter, not harder." It's a philosophy that won him the Maine chapter of the American Culinary Federation's (ACF) Chef of the Year award in 1998, while he served as executive chef at the Narcissa Stone Restaurant in the Captain Daniel Stone Inn of Brunswick.

Brought up through the industry in the old way, where everything was made from scratch, done by hand — and technique was everything — Smith mastered the classic approach to hospitality cooking.

But, today, labor shortages are making it impossible to do things the old-fashioned way, impossible for all but the most special signature dishes.

So Smith walks a different path, now. The goal is still food that looks and tastes great, and that makes, rather than loses, money for the restaurant.

"There is no help," Smith said, "and it's going to get worse. We work with the state, and we work with the ACF. Fifty percent of our discussions are about help."

The labor shortages are affecting other area restaurants, as well. Peter Bodwell, owner of Peter's Restaurant in Waterford, closed early this season because he didn't have enough wait staff. Bodwell does the cooking himself, but without waiters and waitresses he couldn't keep the restaurant open through October. "I've got a lot of friends that

More stalls, some stirring around Bethel Station

By MICHAEL DANIELS

The fast-passing construction season is proving to be yet another missed opportunity for linking Bethel Station into the fabric of Bethel village, but there is at least one sign — if only a small one — of the expansion of the local business community into the stalled project.

Still going nowhere on the grounds are the recreational path along the Androscoggin River and the Mechanic Street extension — both of which town officials had confidently predicted would be well underway by now. And one of these, the path, now appears likely to be put off entirely for yet another year.

On the brighter side, the project's would-be commercial artery, the Parkway, may soon have its first new business office since the Norway Savings Bank building was completed in 1996.

The business itself, Connecting Rentals, is not new to Bethel Station. The company's office has operated out of the Savings Bank building for four years.

And the building they will move to is also not a new addition to Bethel Station. It is the former L.E. Davis' office building on Cross Street.

The small, two-story frame building, which is located next to Western Maine Supply, also briefly held the offices of Bethel Station Limited Partnership.

Debbie Martin, owner of Connecting Rentals, plans to move the building to a site on the north (river) side of the Parkway, where

Newry asked to put transit funds into fire training

By ALISON ALOISIO

Newry selectmen have scheduled a special Town Meeting Sept. 25 to vote on transferring $4,800 originally earmarked for the Bethel area transit system to firefighter training. Voters will also be asked if they wish to accept a donation of 25 acres of land along the Sunday River.

The $4,800 in transit money was approved by a slim margin at the annual Town Meeting in March as Newry's share of an interlocal bus system to be shared with Bethel. But Bethel voters turned down the proposal at their Town Meeting in June, leaving Newry with no plan to which to contribute its funds.

Selectman Wendy Hanscom proposed the money be put toward firefighter training. Specifically, she suggested, the town should look into paying for nine or 10 firemen to take part in Firefighter I training. The training was recommended by consultant Neil Courtney in a fire department needs study completed several months ago.

As for the transit system, a new plan has since been proposed that would focus on Sunday River Ski-

Seventh graders looking for (unpaid) work in their communities

By ALISON ALOISIO

Envelopes need stuffing? Cemeteries or parks need cleaning?

Trails need clearing? No problem. Call the seventh grade at Telstar Middle School.

Every member of the class will be required to perform 20 hours of public service this year, as part of the grade's social studies curriculum.

This isn't the first year the kids have been looking to lend a helping hand. But it is the first year they're looking for a helping hand in getting started.

And they're asking us what needs to be done.

The 20-hour requirement went into place several years ago. "The social studies curriculum has a big chunk on Maine communities," said teacher Lenny Hoy. "This seemed a natural way to get kids out into the community."

But Hoy and his fellow teachers found the students were having a hard time coming up with projects. The staff found they had to give the kids plenty of leeway. They let them count mowing grandma's lawn or serving as a Reading Buddy to a kindergartner (a school program).

"We were compensating for their difficulties," said Hoy. "In looking at it, that didn't satisfy us."

So this year, the staff is trying to compile a list of possibilities for students. Teacher Mary Richardson and Andover selectman Wendy Green brainstormed an initial list of

Call-in will take comments on sign regs

By ALISON ALOISIO

A public forum on proposed changes to the Bethel Sign Ordinance will be broadcast live on Channel IV Sept. 26.

Prompted by a Town Meeting vote in June, a subcommittee of the 2003 Committee has been developing an approach for addressing problems with the ordinance.

"The approach essentially calls for the subcommittee to review the ordinance in order to uncover inconsistencies, missing items and areas that might need to be changed," the subcommittee said in a statement.

Concerns about various parts of the ordinance had been expressed by businesspeople in the months leading up to the Town Meeting.

Several said the ordinance prevented them from putting up signs with good visibility, and some filed appeals requesting more signs.

Members of the sign subcommittee include Janet Black, Al Cressy, Bob Laux and Michele Varuolo.

They have been working with Don Murphy, CEO and town planner, and Cathy DiCocco and Jim Mann, business advisors to the Planning Board's Sign Committee.

"The essence of the review is to look at the scope of the sign ordinance," Cressy said Tuesday.

He said the ordinance does not

ALBANY INFORMATIONAL MEETING

To the Editor:

On Sunday, Sept. 17 at 3 p.m., the Albany Improvement Association will hold an informational meeting for all residents of Albany at the Albany Town Hall.

At issue is the continuing need for funds to pay the legal debt incurred in the fight to keep casinos out of the area and proposals for the future of Albany Township that would insure it retains its rural character.

I urge all residents to attend this meeting. Margaret Wille and Jeff Rosenblatt will be in attendance to address questions.

PASS PIPELINE SAFETY BILLS

To the Editor:

In recent weeks we saw numerous articles about the explosion in New Mexico, which killed 12 people — yes, the last survivor died, too. Last week, a police officer was killed in Texas, and, last year, three young boys died in Bellingham, Wash. Also of such explosions, the causes are either non-maintenance of aging pipelines or excavation work near the pipeline.

Three years ago, everyone sided with big business in bringing this kind of danger to our neighborhoods. Now is the time to do something to protect our area so we don't end up making these kinds of headlines. We need to protect ourselves and the future of our children. Reality is that statistics are against us, and the question is not if but when disaster will strike. OPS (Office of Pipeline Safety) has not done its job proving our point made three years ago, that there are regulations but who is there to enforce them?

PNCTS has tried to come across as the community-friendly corporation. Therefore, I challenge them and the citizens of Bethel to get in touch with our representatives and urge them to get the pipeline safety bills, which are now on the floor in Congress, passed.

LIKES HOW SHE SEES IT

To the Editor:

I always read Sharon Bouchard's "As I See It" column. It always elicits a smile of recognition, sometimes a good belly laugh.

Like any good humor writer, she uses exaggeration, sometimes outrageous exaggeration, to make a point — and to make us laugh.

Paul Hausman's recent letter to the editor is surprising in its venom against the column. "As I See It" is meant to be humorous, after all, not a serious discussion of an issue. Too bad he misses the humor, and can only rant against her "male bashing."

Everyone has a right to his or her opinion, of course, but I hope Hausman's criticism of the column doesn't prevent "As I See It" from appearing in The Citizen. Or worse, that she should have to make it politically correct, to eliminate the outrageousness, to appease such critics.

HAZ WASTE COLLECTION DAY

To the Editor:

The annual Household Hazardous Waste Collection is scheduled for Saturday, Sept. 30. The hours will be 9 to 11 a.m. at the Bethel Recycling Center. Please pre-register with the town office (824-2669). Residents of other towns should check with their own town office. This is your opportunity to get rid of no-longer-usable materials that are toxic, flammable, corrosive, or reactive, in an environmentally responsible manner.

No longer-usable paints should be separated into two categories: latex (water based) and oil based. Latex paints are not considered hazardous waste. Latex paint containers can be left open (away from children and pets) to let the contents slowly harden to a solid, which can be included with regular household trash. Also OK as regular household trash are empty oil-based paint containers or containers with completely dried-up residue. Oil-based paints, varnishes, stains, etc., that are still liquid should be brought to the hazardous waste collection.

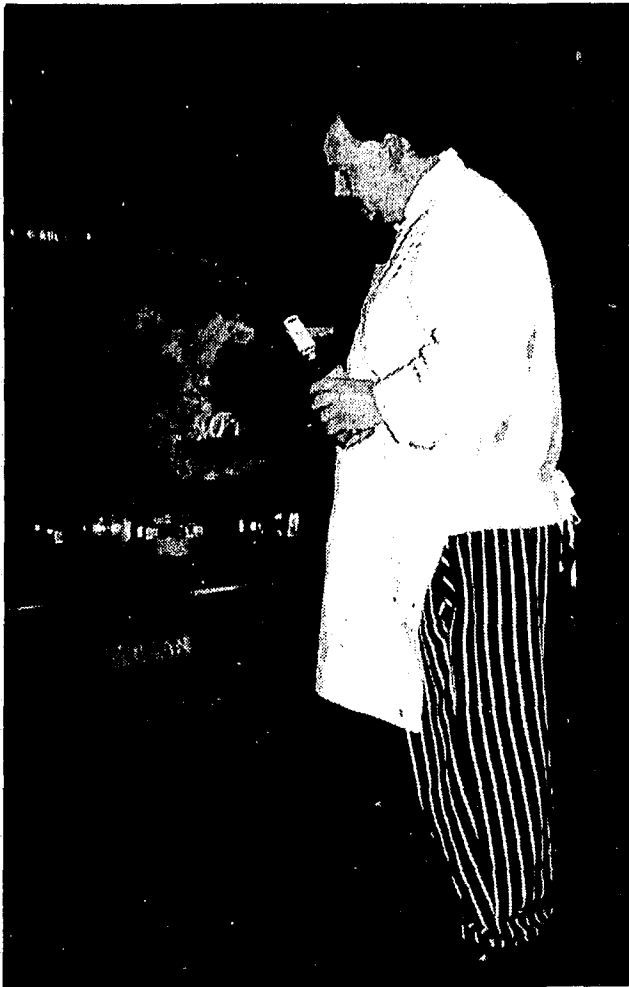

Used motor oil and antifreeze are accepted at the hazardous waste collection, but you can save the town (and therefore yourself) money by asking your local garage or service station whether they take these materials. If they don't, they can often refer you to someone who does.

A final suggestion is to think of relatives or friends who, because of age or health, could use your help in ridding their home of hazardous materials.

as Randall Smith, the new, award-winning chef at the Sudbury Inn, prepares a signature dish for diners at the inn's restaurant. "My philosophy is to work smarter, not harder," he said. To do this, Smith takes advantage of Internet resources and value-added products to help keep the kitchen running smoothly despite the current labor shortages in the food industry. This allows him to dedicate his time to the fine-dining signature dishes, he said, while maintaining quality and value for meals served downstairs in the Sud's Pub.

have restaurants, doing 300 covers (dinners) a night, and they've had trouble all year," he said.

Value-added products
"Fortunately," Smith said, "the manufacturers recognize this, and they are making products that are value added. You can fill in with those, like french fries. Hand-cut fries are really good, but frozen fries are something that people count on, too."

Understanding the products available and how to best use them are key to Smith's kitchen. He wants to use his time in the kitchen creating those signature dishes, not cutting fries and cleaning lettuce.

Currently, Smith is evaluating the Sud's Pub menu. "It's a successful menu," he said, "people like it." He doesn't want to replace the menu with a completely new one, but he wants to make it as efficient and cost effective as possible.

To that end, Smith took his two chefs, Mike Bulger and Matt Clark, on a field trip to NorthCenter Foodservice in Augusta on Tuesday. NorthCenter is a provider for the Sudbury Inn. There, the three chefs toured the state-of-the-art warehouse and distribution center, met with staff, and finished the visit off with NorthCenter chef, Kevin Stetson.

Stetson, a two-time winner of the Chef of the Year Award, is an old friend of Smith's. He demonstrated a number of products, all with a focus on pub food.

The chefs discussed other potential uses for each product; other comparable products they were familiar with. They also tasted them all, eating, as chefs are prone to do, standing around the kitchen.

The goal of the trip was to identify products of the same, or better quality, than those already used, and those that are either more efficient to prepare or cost less.

There were soups to try, flash frozen in boil-in bags, with a minimum of additives. The peas in the chicken pie filling/soup were still bright green. There were appetizers appropriate for a pub setting, from potstickers to chicken wings, duck and salmon tenders to cod filets. There were dressings and dipping sauces to slather over the tidbits, as well.

Each item was cooked, sampled, and critiqued. Then, with a swig of ginger ale to rinse the mouth, they went on to the next.

Making life in the kitchen easier

Chefs Smith and Stetson explained that the quality of these products is so good it would be impossible to make them from scratch in a restaurant setting and maintain consistency — and consistency is critical to a restaurant's success.

The ease of preparation is also critical. Pizza sauce and crust came under review. Three cans of prepared sauce were opened and spread on a crust, topped with cheese and baked. One can was the brand already favored by the Sud's Pub. The other two were similar high-end sauces.

Both Bulger and Clark wanted a sauce they could just open and use. "If I have to do anything to it," Bulger said, "it might not get done when things are busy." Having to change the basic sauce in any way opens the door for inconsistency, as well.

One of the sauces was ruled out as too spicy to go with the many specialty pizzas the pub prepares. The second had a great flavor, but the texture wasn't quite right.

Bethel Station

she hopes its commercial karma will prove more positive.

"I'm hoping for a positive energy flow there," Martin said.

Her plan was scheduled to be taken up by the Planning Board Wednesday evening.

If all goes well, she said, she hopes to be up and running in her new location by the start of the coming ski season.

More path delays

All is not going well for the proposed recreational path through the project, which has been delayed time and again by paperwork and procedure hurdles.

Last month it appeared (once again) that the last hurdle had been cleared. The land for the path was being donated by Bethel Station Limited Partnership and town selectmen agreed to accept an easement on the land which allows BSLP to perform erosion control work on a small portion of the land.

At that point town officials dealing with project repeated their earlier predictions the 12-foot-wide paved path would be completed this year.

That now looks unlikely. The new delays include a disagreement over the need for a title search, and a reluctance on the part of the project engineers to submit the final design plans necessary for DEP approval and for the project to be put out to bid.

At this point, getting the project out to bid in time for the work to be even started this year, "has been downgraded from 'when' to 'if,'" said Town Manager Scott Cole.

He said the main hang-up is the lack of design drawings, which the engineering firm working on the project has apparently not completed.

Taylor Engineering Associates, of Auburn, has handled the project from the earliest input gathering stages, Cole said, and has been paid approximately $25,000 for their work.

But they have yet to complete the design drawings, Cole said, and are blaming the delay on the town's failure to provide the necessary information on a timely basis. (A call Tuesday to Taylor Engineering project manager Joe Norton was not returned by presstime Wednesday afternoon.)

It is still possible, Cole said, that the various problems could be resolved in time for the path's gravel base to be laid this season, but the paving is now slated for 2001.

The delays are not a concern to at least one group of intended path users, snowmobilers.

They already have a well-established snowmobile path across the land, said Robert Lowell, of the Bethel Snow Twisters.

Snowmobilers would only be affected, he said, "if the town says we can't use it."

Road stalled at RR crossing

Town officials were also predicting earlier that the railroad crossing at the foot of Mechanic Street would be completed this year, but that, too, has yet to happen.

In this case, the St. Lawrence & Atlantic Railroad, rather than the town, calls the tune.

Getting the railroad prepared for the crossing was to have been the railroad's first project this spring, Cole said, and in fact, much of the work, including new signals has been completed.

But the town cannot go ahead with paving until the railroad installs rubber inserts that go between the rails and the paving, Cole said.

Those inserts were to have been installed two weeks ago, he said, but the railroad has said it is still waiting for delivery of the units.

Cole said the railroad's lack of apparent haste in getting to the project is understandable.

In June 1999, when he came on board as town manager, he found the railroad had been waiting for almost two years for the town to pay nearly $28,000 it owed for safety equipment at the crossing (the funds come ultimately from a federal grant).

Cole said he ordered the payment made that month.

When completed, the project will extend Mechanic Street to Cross Street and allow motorists to travel more directly between the project and Bethel village.

Residents, too, do not seem to have a sense of urgency about this newest addition to Bethel's roadways — which many still refer to as "the Road to Nowhere."

Cabin burns; benefit supper planned

ALBANY—An uninsured log cabin off Route 5 in Albany burned to the ground last Thursday. No one was injured in the fire, which was reported at about 8:45 a.m. The cabin's owner, Andy Rugg, had spent six years building the structure. Fire departments from Bethel, Waterford, Norway and Stoneham responded to the blaze. The cause was not known. The towns of Stoneham and Waterford will host a benefit spaghetti supper for the family tonight (Thursday) from 5-8 p.m. at the Stoneham fire station. The cost is $6 for adults and $3 for children. Donations may be sent to P.O. Box 91, Stoneham, 04231. For more information call 928-2546 or 928-2155.

SAD44 personnel appointments

BETHEL—The SAD44 School Board Monday made several personnel appointments and created a new position. Appointed were: Lori Mills, school bus driver; Eugene Kelly, part-time educational technician for special services transportation; Lorene Cobb, part-time educational technician for special services; Cheryl Angevine, library supervisor for 2000-2001; Jay Partridge, part-time elementary physical education teacher for Andover and Woodstock schools; Diana Field-Nadeau, food service worker for Andover School; Karen McKay, part-time educational technician for Andover School. Extra- and co-curricular personnel appointments were also approved. The board voted to create an educational technician (II) for Interpretive Services (special education).

Hikers found safe in Riley

RILEY TOWNSHIP—Two lost Kents Hill School students were found safe last Wednesday night after being separated from their school hiking group. The 15-year-old boys were reported missing in the afternoon, and were found at 10:15 p.m. northeast of Goose Eye Mountain's West Peak. They took a wrong trail after lagging slightly behind part of their group. When found by Warden Christi Dorion and Outward Bound School Director Landon Fake, they were reportedly in their sleeping bags and a little cold and hungry. Also taking part in the search were groups from Mahoosuc Mountain Search and Rescue and Gould Academy. The boys spent the rest of the night at Gould Academy.

Selectmen review comp. plan

NEWRY—Selectmen will next week begin a systematic review of the Newry Comprehensive Plan, approved in 1992. "The selectmen have tasked themselves to review the plan and determine what changes are necessary," said First Selectman Steve Wight. They do not yet have a particular timeline for completing the review, he said, but plan to work on some of it at each weekly meeting.

Three injured in accident

WEST PARIS—Three young women were injured last weekend when their car hit a tree on Route 219. The accident was reported shortly before 1 a.m. Sunday. The women's identities were not available from the Oxford County Sheriff's Office. Two of them were taken by LifeFlight helicopter to Central Maine Medical Center in Lewiston and the third to Stephens Memorial Hospital in Norway. The car hit a tree eight feet off the ground before landing upside down on a stone wall. The victims had to be cut out of the vehicle with a hydraulic tool.

Small biz group honors Jodrey

EREPORT—Rep. Arlan Jodrey (R-Bethel) was named a Guardian of Small Business by the National Federation of Independent Business Maine Chapter for voting in strong support of small business in the 1999-2000 legislative session. A total of 92 out of 186 legislators received the award.

Three businesses may join Wal-Mart

MEXICO—Three additional businesses are considering coming to Mexico when Wal-Mart opens here in the fall of 2001. Town Manager Joe Derouche did not give details regarding the type of businesses involved, but said they are interested in locating along Route 2, where Wal-Mart plans to locate. The store, a supercenter, will employ 200 people.

Gospel concert on the common

BETHEL—The choir of the Mt. Calvary Baptist Church in Boston will perform on the town common Sunday, Sept. 17 at 5 p.m. The concert, which is sponsored by the Bethel Alliance Church, is free to the public. Those planning to attend are advised to bring lawn chairs and blankets for the hour-long concert. This is the second year the choir has performed in Bethel. Last year's concert drew a crowd of nearly 300 people, according to Bethel Alliance Pastor Rick Mowery. If the weather is bad, the concert will be held in the Telstar auditorium.

Amtrak seeks workers

PORTLAND—Amtrak has begun advertising for assistant passenger conductors in preparation for April's long-delayed start of service between Boston and Portland. "It's moving forward," said Russ Hall, an Amtrak spokesman in Boston. "They're getting crews together and want them to be ready to go when the service starts." An advertisement that appeared in last weekend's Maine Sunday Telegram sought workers who would be trained to throw switches, couple and uncouple cars, collect fares and help board passengers. The 114-mile service was initially scheduled to start in 1993, but a series of setbacks have made it the longest-delayed passenger rail project in Amtrak history. Track crews have been working this year to replace ties and install new track to accommodate the high-speed trains. Amtrak plans to run "event trains" — off-peak runs to Boston's North Station — starting in January or February. Full service will not begin until April because of the Big Dig, the massive highway and tunnel construction project in downtown Boston.

Killington plans on hold

KILLINGTON, Vt.—Officials with the Killington ski area and its parent company say they're still looking for a national hotel chain to help launch a planned $717 million slopeside village. And the lack of a deal in hand now most likely means construction that was to start next spring will be pushed back at least a year. The resort is now hoping to start construction in 2002 on a 15-year project to build more than 1,200 hotel rooms and suites, 160 town houses and 180,000 square feet of retail space in the village. Spangler said the resort needs a large, nationally recognized hotel chain to build a timeshare condominium hotel — the heart of the proposed development — near the Snowshed Lodge. Killington officials have said in the past they were negotiating with Marriott hotels, but said this week that other hotel chains have been approached as well. Negotiations are being conducted by Les Otten, chairman and president of American Skiing Co., the parent company of Killington.

Adopt a fire escape plan

AUGUSTA—The State Fire Marshal is urging Maine families to adopt a fire-escape plan for their homes as part of Fire Prevention Week (Oct. 8-14). Fire Marshal John C. Dean said 58 lives have been saved nationwide in the past two years by families preplanning their fire escape routes. Dean said the escape plan designates an exit route for each member of the household and sets up a meeting place, outside the home, for family members to gather and be accounted for. The marshal's office and local fire departments around the state have information for families to develop and plan escape routes, Dean said.

From the Bethel Police Log:

Subject wouldn't quit

At 12:45 a.m. on Saturday, Sept. 9 police stopped a subject on Railroad Street for speeding (49 mph in a 30 mph zone) and failing to yield. He showed signs of intoxication and was given field sobriety tests. Gregory Coolidge, 35, of Wilton was arrested for OUI. A subsequent investigation revealed he was operating an unregistered motor vehicle with plates that he claimed he stole from a friend. The plates were confiscated and the subject was brought to the Oxford County Jail, where he was administered a breath test. He was also charged for the other offenses.

At 8:30 a.m. police received a report that the subject in the above incident was seen in a vehicle without any plates on it. The officer made contact with him, and he was taken to the Bethel Police Department, where he was given a breath test and charged with another count of OUI.

Thursday, Sept. 7

At 1:10 a.m. police arrested Rodney J. Levesque, 20, after a reported altercation at Bethel Park Apartments. He was charged with assault (domestic violence), aggravated criminal trespass, refusal to submit to detention/arrest, criminal terrorizing and criminal restraint.

At 11:30 a.m. police stopped and summoned Francois Brissette, 44, of Montreal, Quebec on Route 26 for exceeding the posted speed limit by more than 30 mph (83mph in a 50 mph zone).

At 10 a.m. police were advised to meet at the SAD44 bus garage regarding a school bus red light violation. It was determined on arrival that the incident occurred in Woodstock.

Saturday, Sept. 9

At 11:36 a.m. police investigated a traffic accident with injuries on Route 2/ Martin Lane that resulted in the arrest of Anthony R. St. Peter, 19, of Littleton, N.H. for driving to endanger. He was also issued a violations summons for improper passing. He also had two outstanding warrants. Two of his passengers, Michelle Levesque, 20, of Littleton and Robert Barron, 19, of Whitefield, N.H., were issued summonses for possession of drug paraphernalia. The injured subject was taken to Stephens Memorial Hospital with neck injuries.

This report highlights points of interest from the Bethel Police Department log, but does not include all reports of police activity. To reach the Bethel Police Department, call 911 in emergency situations, 824-3437 in non-emergencies.

First selectman Steve Wight said that in recommending the transfer of funds, "We're not saying by doing it the transit system isn't going to work."

It is now the hope of the new transit plan's supporters that if the system is put in place, the towns might later buy into it if they see a benefit.

Land donation

Residents will also consider whether to accept a donation of 25 acres of land along the Sunday River from Tim Cohee, who now lives in California.

The land is located across the river from the Goose Eye development on the Sunday River Road. Cohee also developed Goose Eye, splitting off the 25 acres in the process.

In a letter to selectmen, Cohee said the parcel, abutted by American Skiing Property land, is now landlocked and, according to area real estate agents, essentially worthless.

It had been valued by the town at $18,300.

In other business at the special Town Meeting, voters will be asked to approve the expenditure of $228,850 to buy a new pump-per/tanker truck. The purchase itself was approved at the annual Town Meeting.

The truck proposed for purchase by the Fire Department would have a Kenworth cab and chassis, with the body built by Valley Fire Equipment of New Hampshire.

Also on the agenda are several technical changes to the Unified Development Ordinance and the Shoreland Zoning Ordinance and map.

The zoning map needs to be changed to agree with the zoning ordinance, selectmen said. The discrepancy is preventing a resident from building a combination garage/apartment addition.

The meeting will begin at 7 p.m. at the Town Office.

Sign ordinance

appear to be broad enough to cover special-events signs, for example, and there are also concerns about sandwich board signs.

Another area needing attention is the distinction between signs used for advertising and those used to direct people to businesses.

Kiosk signs also present some problems, he said. The one at the foot of Main Street has no room for expanding the number of businesses listed, and locations for other kiosks have not been resolved.

And because town signs are intended to complement MDOT and international signs, he said, the ordinance should also "bring in the notion of them," he said.

In holding the public forum, said Cressy, "we're looking for business input, but we're looking for community input also, because we all have to live with (the signs)."

Input from people living in neighboring towns is also important, he said, because if any Bethel ordinance "crowds out signs in Bethel, where do they end up - on the town line in Greenwood, Newry or Gilead?"

Cressy said the committee will also be interested to hear positive points about the existing ordinance.

As the committee's work progresses, members will consider the following guidelines for reviewing the ordinance:

1) Preserve and protect the public health, safety, and welfare within Bethel.

2) Encourage development of private property in harmony with the desired character of the town, while providing due regard for the public and private interests involved.

3) Create an attractive environment conducive to business, industrial, residential and tourist-related uses.

4) Promote the effectiveness of signs by preventing their over-concentration, improper placement, deterioration and excessive size and number.

5) Enhance the flow of traffic and the convenience, ease and enjoyment of travel within Bethel.

6) Protect travelers in Bethel from injury or damage as a result of distraction or obstruction of vision attributable to signs.

The forum will begin at 7 p.m. at Telstar High School. Questions may also be called in by phone.

leads: libraries, horse and snowmobile clubs (trails, fundraisers), churches, highway departments (cleanup), Grange and other historic buildings (maintenance) and cemeteries, town greens, parks and beaches (cleanup) are among the ideas.

The staff has already heard of interest from the town of Woodstock and Big Brothers/Big Sisters. They hope to gather other organizations for a "Service Fair" Sept. 29 at the school, to give kids and organizations a chance to connect.

Hoy said any groups hesitant about utilizing students because of liability issues need not be concerned. As long as they volunteer as part of the school program with the school's approval, the district's insurance will cover them.

Organizations interested in participating in the program may call Hoy at TMS (824-3596) or e-mail at hoyt@megalink.net.

The fact is we're all at risk:

- Nearly 50% of all Americans will need long-term health care at some point.¹

Betty Perkins and "Red" Coolidge attended the big Blue Grass Festival at Thomas Point Beach in Brunswick on Labor Day. Last week, they visited her sister and husband, Jean and Clifford Welch in Augusta.

On Saturday, Sept. 9, Lindley and Pauline Wieden attended their great-grandnephew, Christopher Soucy, and Jennifer Lee's wedding at the Hinckley Chapel followed by a reception at John Martin Manor in Waterville. On Labor Day Weekend, the Wiedens accompanied their daughter and husband, Sylvia and Don LaFlamme, on a trip through Ellsworth, Machias, Calais and to Chance Harbor, New Brunswick, Canada, staying at the Mariners Inn, then on to St. John and Fredericton and back to Vienna, returning home on Tuesday.

The Bethel House

by Ruth Cummings

For the month of August, I received 4.6 inches of rain. May through August, 19.4 inches. In 1999 for the same period of time, 18.4. In September last year I received 12.3 inches of rain. May through September in 1999 I got 30.7 inches. The 10-year average for September is 4.9 inches and the 10-year season average, 24.51.

Ronnie reported to me he received 2.93 inches in August.

Keith Walley had a party for his 15th birthday at Screw Auger Falls. Irene Standish has returned to her home in Florida after spending her vacation with her mother, Olive Williams, at the Bethel House.

Two men from Biddeford washed all the windows at the Bethel House that they could reach without the use of a ladder. They are to come back and do the rest of them soon.

Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Hanscom and son Tyler of North Conway, N.H. visited with Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Hanscom recently. Mr. and Mrs. David Hershey of North Waterboro were also recent visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Hanscom.

Thanks N and J for my 51st birthday card. I really did enjoy getting it.

Sylvia Clark and Gloria Ring of Hobbs Road, Greenwood, visited me one day recently and Gloria brought me some nice string beans and cukes. Thanks again, Gloria.

Also, thanks to Drew Webster for the garden produce he has been bringing and that I could share with some of my neighbors in here.

KC Denton of PMV Coastal was at the Bethel House recently on maintenance and the inspectors were here inspecting the apartments and checking fire alarms.

Lottie Knowles of Dixfield spent a few days recently with her sister, Eva Lane, at the Bethel House.

In a short time on the morning of Sept. 2, I received one inch of rain in my gauge. It was only 4 a.m., but Ginny and I were outside watching the rain as we had tired of laying awake so long because of the muggy weather. It certainly poured for awhile. We did hear a couple claps of distant thunder and saw a couple of flashes of lightning.

We have been fortunate this summer in not having many thunderstorms thus far. Makes me very happy.

"Age is not important unless you are a cheese." --Helen Hayes

There was a very nice attendance at the Bethel Alliance Church on Sunday, Sept. 3. Ben Conant was guest speaker. His talk was very nice. Thanks a lot, Ben. We all like to have you with us now and then.

Rebecca Ricker and Clara Whitman went to a number of yard sales in Norway recently and had lunch at Burger King.

The flowers here this year are a big disappointment to me. They are not nearly as pretty as usual. In the past years, the impatiens would grow in a mass and one could only tell where one plant ended by the many different colors. This year the impatiens and some others hardly grew.

Sylvia Clark of Hobbs Road, Greenwood, visited me again on Monday.

Florence Morgan of Sudbury Village visited her sisters, Eva Lane and Lottie Knowles, at the Bethel House recently.

"Lord guard our tongues so what we say/Won't hurt and carelessly offend/Give us the gracious speech of love/With words that soothe and heal and mend." --Sper

Well, I received three more birthday cards on Sept. 5 and also some gifts. And I was so pleased. That makes 54 cards. Thanks everyone.

It was 84 degrees here on Friday and very humid. On Sept. 5 it was 34 degrees. It was 30 degrees and foggy on Sept. 6. Quite some change, but nothing new; it is just Maine weather.

Andy and I were invited to a birthday party in honor of Fritz Peterson's 98th birthday. It was to be held in South Bristol, but Fritz was not feeling well so they moved it to Fred and Ellie Peterson's on Central Avenue. As it turned out, the day was gray and rainy so it was better to have it there. They have a big house with a sun porch and a large garage, so they just put the gas grills right outside the garage and had tables and chairs inside the garage and it worked out well. Everyone who liked lobster had lobster and clams.

I'm not a lobster fan so I had chicken and clams. Norma is allergic to all seafood so she just had chicken. They had some excellent corn on the cob. Norma had gotten Fritz this enormous birthday cake and there was ice cream.

After the meal, we all went inside to see Fritz open his gifts. Ellie had made him a genealogy book starting, I believe, with his great-grandparents. Each person in the book has his or her page so it was quite thick. Right now the youngest in the family is Donald Peterson, who just turned one. Allie Rubin is only a few days older. Both were born in July 1999. It seems strange to see them walking. They don't stay babies very long.

Let's see if I can remember everyone. There was, of course, Fritz and Norma, Fred and Ellie, Kenneth Peterson, his son Kenneth and girlfriend, Autumn; Kathy and Richard Perron and their boys, Ricky, Josh and Jonathan (they have two girls but both of them are in college); Sharon and Steve Rubin and daughter Allie; Steve and Amy Peterson, George, Kathy and Donald; Ruth Trites; Mae Millard; Sarah Trites; Donald and I. I think that is everyone. At least I'm getting to know everyone. The Trites are Amy's mother and sister. I really adore Sarah. She reminds me of my daughter, Marcia. I said something about leaving a bag of garbage in the shed just in front of the door and how Andy went out there and didn't even notice, so instead of putting it in the garbage can, he just walked around it. Sarah got this twinkle in her eye and said, "Do you think you were being too subtle?"

Speaking of Marcia, she and husband, Jon Smith, plan to come down state on the weekend of the 16th and 17th. They celebrate their 23rd wedding anniversary on Sept. 17. It seemed not too long ago John and I were celebrating our 25th and now she is only two years from that momentous occasion. Mercy!

The program was as follows: opening thought, Bertha Benoit; opening song by all; reading by Lucy Robbins, "A Mile with Me"; Wilma Day was presented with a certificate of appreciation and gifts from the Grange for being secretary for 14 years as she is retiring from that job; song, "This Old Grange"; reading by Connie Tuttle, "The Sweetest Place"; mystery march; closing thought, "What am I thankful for," Bertha Benoit; closing song, "Good Night Grangers." Sunday services are Sunday School and Adult Bible Fellowship at 9:15 a.m., morning worship at 10:30 a.m. and evening service at 6 p.m. Coming Sept. 22 to 24 is Creation Seminar with David Woetzel.

Beatrice Farnum went with Beth, Steve and Marybeth Hoover to Boothbay Harbor on Monday.

Bob and Gwenn Hoyt and their dog, Sadie, spent Friday night at their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ken Hoyt's. The dog stayed for the weekend while Bob and Gwenn went to Vermont.

The Woodstock Extension will meet on Wednesday, Sept. 20 at the Town Annex at 10:30 a.m. Bring a brown bag lunch. It will be a workshop for holiday open house.

Peg Verrill had her 95th birthday on Aug. 29. To help her celebrate were her daughter Ernestine and friends Chris and Christy, Anne Crockett, Maurice and Cecile Lescault and Vi Clukey. They all went to the Balsams in Dixville Notch, N.H. What a beautiful place and what a great feast. The 90-year plus ladies caught up on the local gossip in the sun room while the younger group did the gift shop scene. A great time was had by all. They left Bryant Pond at 10 a.m. and returned home around 5 p.m., just in time for a nap. Happy birthday, Peg.

Don't forget the Grange Variety Show on Friday night, Sept. 15 at 7 p.m. at the Grange Hall. Come help support the Grange. Tickets are $5 for adults and $3 for children under 12. Refreshments will be on sale.

Karlene Bachelder and Gil Seeley went to the Oxford Hills Lanes in South Paris and did some bowling for fun. Karlene was high on the first string, beating Gil by 20 pins. She also was high on the second string, beating Gil by six pins. But Gil was high on the third, beating Karlene by 18 pins. So on the overall scores, Karlene was high on the singles and triples, beating Gil by eight pins. She had four spares and Gil, one spare.

My niece, Theresa Toti from Rhode Island, spent a few days with me here in North Newry during the Labor Day weekend and we went to the craft and bake sale sponsored by the Ladies Aid of Upton. We were in company with Sylvia Harrington (who drove), Sylvia Wight and her granddaughter, Melissa. Afterward, we took a ride all around Upton and Errol and had lunch in the restaurant there.

Well, I saw the white rabbit again in the yard eating Sunday evening around 7 p.m. I hope he can make it this winter and doesn't get run over.

A Yard Sale, sponsored by Newry Mothers Club, will be held Sept. 23, 9 a.m. to 2 p.m., at the Newry Grange Hall. Rain date: Sept. 24. If anyone would like to rent table space, there will be a $5 donation. If interested, please call Patty at 824-2860.

Beautiful weather we have been having. Too bad it wasn't a little earlier in the summer.

East Stoneham

by Eleanor Nelson
Hi readers. Another week has rolled around. On Sept. 3 the Stoneham Rescue held their annual Labor Day breakfast with a good crowd attending, and it was a good breakfast, as usual, with lots of pancakes, sausage, bacon, eggs, muffins, juice, coffee and doughnuts. We met some members from the Maine Trail Riders Association who were camping out over at Evergreen Valley. There were about 40 people and horses over there. Some were from the Litchfield area and had been enjoying riding their horses on the trails in the area on the long Labor Day weekend.

Sunday, we welcomed the Rev. George Froberg and his wife, Joan, into the East Stoneham Church. They live in Naples and will be working generally from Sunday to Tuesdays. In an emergency, he can be reached by calling 693-6461.

Also on Sunday, Frank and Julie Boni of Kezar Falls attended church here, and we were privileged and honored to accept a painting of the East Stoneham and North Waterford Congregational churches, which Frank presented to the churches. He is a mechanical engineer and has been painting for 62 years and has just recently been painting churches. They are beautiful paintings and we are grateful for the gift of them.

The next church supper will be the Harvest Supper on Oct. 12 with corned beef and cabbage and all the good veggies and desserts, etc., from 5 to 6:30 p.m.

On Sept. 6, the Waterford Friendly Senior Citizens met at the North Waterford Church vestry for their monthly meeting and dinner, with 20 members present. It was a most delicious meal of fruit cup, meatloaf, mashed potatoes, peas and carrots and hot biscuits, coffee and punch, and cake and ice cream. It was all done by Agnes Roberts. Then Rich Wood played the piano and sang. What a talented person he is and a most enjoyable time was had by all who were there. Thanks — Rich Wood, Agnes Roberts, Marjorie and all who organized it.

It was voted to not have a meeting in October, as it comes at Fryeburg Fair time and to have the next one on Nov. 1. The A.J.'s Restaurant was mentioned but will have to be confirmed, and I will let you know at a later date.

Wednesday, Sept. 30, is the Parish meeting at 7 p.m. at the East Stoneham Church vestry.

Marilyn and Dick Jones spent the weekend of Sept. 9 with Cathy and Jamie Farley in Bernard.

Molly Nelson went to Beverly, Mass. recently where she will be attending Endicott College. Jaffer Traish has gone to Wisconsin where he will be attending college and Aisha Traish went to Boston University on Saturday. Good luck kids.

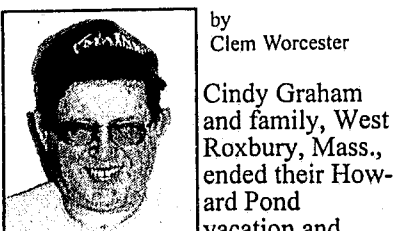

A Farrington get-together was held at Willie Dee's on Aug. 20. Those attending were Glen and Nona Farrington of Oxford, James Farrington of Oxford, Kenneth and Phyllis Farrington of Oxford, Kenneth Jr. and Terry Farrington of Buckfield, Preston and Fay Farrington of Auburn, Edward and Lois Niemi of Stoneham, James Niemi of Portland, Diane Mowatt of Windham, Robert and Janice Bell of Bridgton, Gary and Cathy Bell of Harrison and Norman Farrington of Katy, Texas. Some were unable to attend that day, but a nice lunch and reunion was enjoyed by those who did attend and many pictures were taken.

On Sept. 1, five members of the Minnie-Ha-Ha Temple of the Pythian Sisters met at the home of Arlene Merrill in Harrison. Secretary and treasurer's reports were read and accepted. Refreshments were served by Arlene. The next meeting is scheduled to be Sept. 15 at Arlene's home. Arlene has gotten back from the Florida Supreme Temple of the Sisters.

The towns of Stoneham and Waterford will host a benefit Spaghetti Supper in Stoneham at the Fire Department on Thursday, Sept. 14 from 5 to 8 p.m. Cost for the supper will be $6 for adults and $3 for children. This supper is being held to raise money for Any Rugg and Jana Moffett, who very recently lost their home to a terrible fire. They were uninsured, so this is a total loss. If anyone wants to send any monetary donations, they can be sent to PO Box 91, Stoneham, ME 04231.

and family, West Roxbury, Mass., ended their Howard Pond vacation and have returned home. Before going home they put on a huge backyard cookout for all their area relatives and friends. Everyone ate his or her fill, including the Howard Pond peahen, who lurked in the back-ground.

Sympathy is extended to the family of Janice Schwind. Janice died on Sept. 5 after an illness. She lived on Whippoorwill Road.

The Hanover Planning Board will meet Sept. 14 at 7 p.m. at the Town House.

Mr. and Mrs. Mike Luca from Connecticut were recently at the family cottage on South Shore Road. Mike plans to return again next weekend.

Once again a rooster was delivered to the yard of a Howard Pond resident during the night darkness. Neither the resident nor his neighbor was well impressed when morning came. Reportedly a call was made to SPCA, and there is a possibility that legal charges may be made against the perpetrator(s) who remain anonymous. One citizen stated that he thought it was just a bunch of good old boys who had too much time on their hands. One lady said that she thought one was a joke but five planted roosters is taking a joke too far. Others have blamed this column for calling attention to the rooster incidents.

Several weeks ago we reported on homes in the area that had been broken into and items stolen. The Oxford County Sheriff's Department has not reported any new developments, and they continue to investigate. Meanwhile, the victims are piecing their lives back together and replacing lost items. Neighbors are keeping watchful eyes for suspicious vehicles and occurrences that appear out of place. Some folks have added security measures to their property.

Deirdre O'Callaghan, Tim Lukas and family have returned home from a 10-day vacation to southern Ireland. While there they visited castles, went mackerel fishing and enjoyed visiting with relatives.

New neighbors are being welcomed to the area. The Forbes' family is moving into the former home of Coach and Joyce Perkins. The Forbes are coming to the area from Rhode Island. Mrs. Forbes' mother, Mary Coltonick, is moving into the apartment in the same building.

The boat ramp into the Androscoggin River, built by the Maine Department of Inland Fisheries and Wildlife, is completed and is open to the public. The attractive facility is being praised by all who have stopped to look. The site, located on Ferry Road, off Main Street, was made possible by the donation of land by Mead Corporation.

Upton

by Eleanor LeComte
The warm, summer weather that has evaded us since June finally arrived. It has been a week of warm, perfect days and cool nights. Could you ask for more? September, most years, rewards us with this kind of weather early in the month. We have had a few light frosts and are aware that these warm days will come to an end soon.

With Labor Day behind us, the town is quiet again with only a few people visiting. Lake traffic is way down.

The hummingbirds are still here. They usually are gone by now. The hornets are not pestering them as much as in August. The poor little guys had a hard time getting near the feeder for a while. When they did, it was two sips and away they went. Now they sip and sit a spell. Of course they are still battling it out with their own kind to keep possession of the feeder. Any day now they will head south and we will miss them.

The octagonal stained glass window dedicated to Elsie Fuller was installed by Larry Lavallee last week. Elsie would have loved to see her favorite birds and bird feeder depicted in the many beautiful colors of the glass. Christine Largesse executed the window. She is known for her beautiful loon scenes and is truly an artist in the media.

Sunday evening, there were three pontoon boats lashed together near Duttons (Mettaluck) Island. Sue Nelson rounded up everyone to meet out there and share her delicious peach cobbler. While we were parked, Pat and Horace Goodrum, in their pontoon boat, stopped for a visit. The sun was on its way down and the sky was arrayed in red, pink and orange hues. It was truly beautiful.

The Upton Strollers have added two dogs and three more people on their early morning health walks. Some people will do anything to throw a guilt trip on you.

Our best wishes to Sally Lavallee, who will undergo surgery this week.

The Ladies Aid met on Tuesday Sept. 6, to discuss the fall agenda and craft meeting schedule. We wish to thank all the people that made the craft sale so successful.

The Selectmen met on Tuesday Sept. 6. Discussion on the status of the condemned buildings, paving of the Town Office and the Library area, winter sand and street signs for E-911 took place. There are a few more street signs to be installed and one correction on the Burnham Road. Coordination with the Post Office for the assignment of mail numbers is the next step to be done.

We are seeing more hawks lately. The songbirds at the feeders seem to be on alert more often. They sit perfectly still, not ruffling a feather. They do not wish to be "lunch break" for the enemy.

We occasionally see a red-shouldered hawk winging over Upton. They gracefully soar and dive, flaring their broad wings. The blue jays usually send out the alarm for the other birds, that the hawk is in the area. Red-shouldered hawks breed in wet woodlands over most of the U.S.A. east of the Rockies. Pairs show partiality to former nesting sites, but occasionally take over an abandoned Cooper's hawk nest. Logging the area does not seem to bother them. Usually they build their own nest of lichen, twigs and leaves about 20 to 60 feet up in the crotch of a tree. Both parents incubate three to four eggs. Chicks hatch in about 30 days and stay in the nest five or six weeks. Although he is called a "hen hawk," he rarely takes poultry. His diet consists of rodents, rabbits, frogs, snakes, robins, screech owls, crows, wasps, grasshoppers and turtles. This is a handsome bird with reddish brown shoulders, brownish upper parts, and barred, rusty under parts. There is white streaking on the upper surface of the wing with a light patch near the tip of the under wing. He has a white-banded tail. Watch for him in graceful soaring flight high above. He appears to exert very little effort as he rides the thermals. The "Bird of the Week" is the red-shouldered hawk.

West Paris

by Bertha Benoit
Well, folks, summer is on the wane. We've had a few days of real sizzling weather followed by a few nights of "Frost on the Punkin," as Gram used to say, and we are on the third week of school already. Seems like the older we get, the faster time flies.

Thursday night, Sept. 7, saw a good crowd at West Paris Grange. First for a supper at 6 p.m. followed by a double installation of West Paris Grange 298 and Franklin Grange 124 by Pat Brewer's installing team. The members of his group were as follows: installing officer, Pat Brewer; installing master, James Meserve; marshalls, Judy Meserve and Kathy Brewer.

The Way I See It

by Sharon Bouchard

Sharon Bouchard's column is published here by special arrangement with the Advertising Department of this newspaper.

Did you ever have a moose come running right at you as you sat in your car wondering what to do?

I did.

Do you have any idea how frightening that can be?

I do.

I'm a little bit ashamed to admit, being a lifelong Mainer and all, that I didn't have a clue of what one should do when encountering a moose on the loose in the middle of the road. I did figure out that it probably wasn't too cool to drive at it. I didn't want to hurt the moose or my car and certainly not myself.

What I didn't know, since it was dusk and I had my head lights on, was should I put my lights on high beam and blind the poor thing, or shut the lights off all together and hope it couldn't see me.

I was contemplating blowing my horn hoping I could scare it into the woods, but being ignorant of the habits of the Maine moose, I wasn't sure how it would respond, so I kept my horn quiet.

I even considered briefly finding a hard rock station on the radio and turning the volume way up, but I figured hard rock annoys me, it probably wouldn't do much for the disposition of the moose either.

So, I just sat there in my car watching and wondering how long I would be detained and further wondering if my husband would believe why I was late getting home.

I stopped wondering about much of anything when the moose turned and started running right at me. I have to tell you that when you have an animal of that size charging right at you it certainly does scare the bejeezus out of you. I didn't spend a lot of time pondering my fear though; I threw the car into reverse figuring that I could drive backwards faster than the moose could run forwards. At least that was what I hoped.

It didn't matter anyway because the moose stopped short of the car, gave me what I think was a dirty look (it's pretty hard to tell with a moose) and went back to where it was originally standing. It was pretty obvious to me that the moose was just pushing me back like I wanted me to keep my distance. I certainly didn't argue.

After about 10 minutes of indecision by both the moose and myself, along came a car in the other direction. They stopped and I was pretty sure that they were wondering if they should try the high beam treatment, honk the horn or turn the radio up. They opted for the high beam, which resulted in the moose charging in their direction. Using the same logic that I did, they put their car in reverse and started to back up. Again the moose stopped short of ramming their car. I was hoping that they knew more about moose than I did, but apparently not.

After another 5 or 10 minutes of moose indecision, it turned, gave each of us motorists what I think was another dirty look and ambled off into the woods. I wasted no time in moving on as quickly as I could.

One thing I learned, aside from not learning anything about how to get a moose out of the middle of the road, is what a fascinating and big creature the moose is. It is little wonder that here in Maine we are in awe of the beast. It sure isn't what you could call a beautiful animal, but there is something beautifully magnificent about it.

Up in Greenville they are so in awe of the moose that they have made it a tourist attraction. Every spring they have a month long celebration called "Moose Mania" complete with safaris, hoof sightings, photo contests and the annual black fly affair - the Moose Ball.

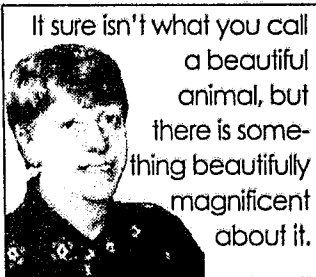

In Bethel, some enterprising people have created moose drop jewelry. Maybe that's what you should wear if you go to the Moose Ball. Can you imagine what replenishing the supplies for that business is like? Moose business is their business.

I ate some moose meat once, though I was too young to remember it. People tell me it tastes better than venison depending on how you cook it.

The National Meat Institute puts out a book entitled "The Moose - From Forest to Table" in which they share some great moose recipes. There's that all-time favorite, Moose Meatballs Paprika, Savory Moose Surprise and the delightful delicacy Fried Moose Fries. With a good size Bull Moose there will be enough fries to feed a family of four.

I would much prefer to watch the moose than to eat it, but I do hope I don't encounter any more moose on the loose in the middle of the road again. It was a scary experience for me and probably the moose wasn't too thrilled about it either.

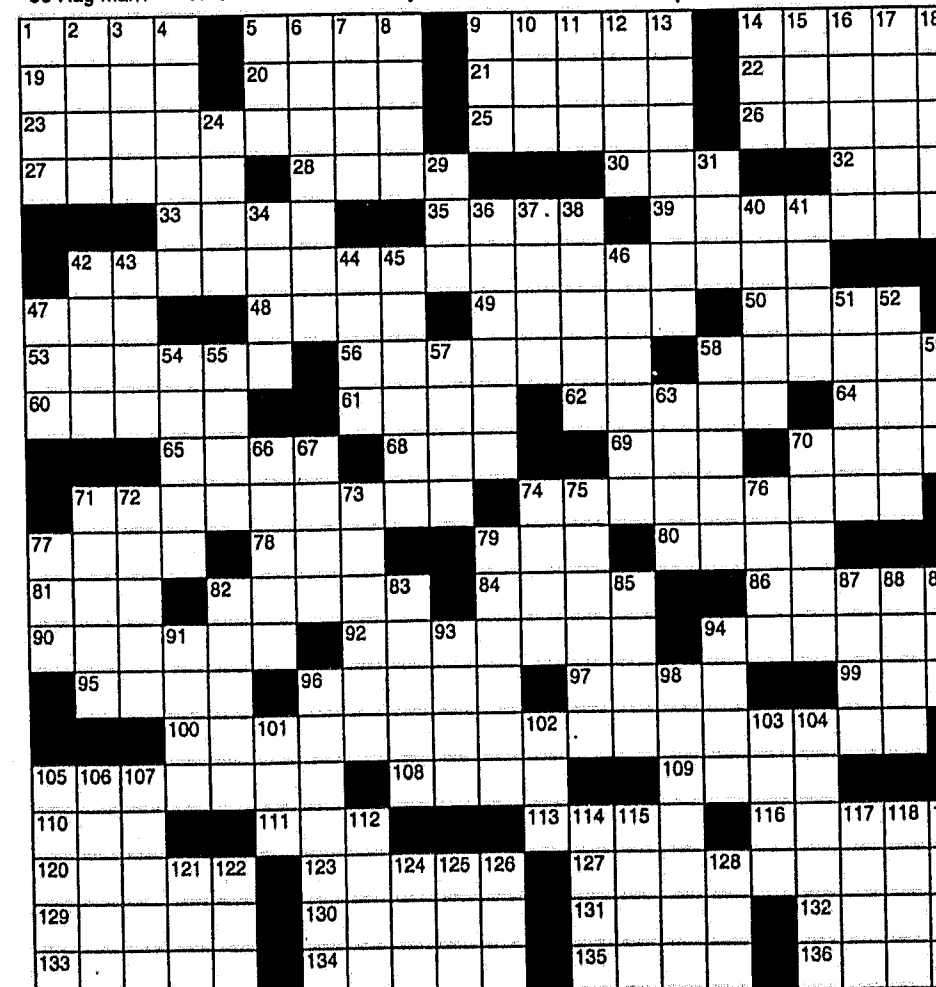

But the way I see it, if I do encounter another moose, I'm just going to wait it out and collect the droppings after it leaves. I could always use a new pair of earrings.

It sure isn't what you call a beautiful animal, but there is something beautifully magnificent about it.

This week's column seems to have turned into a column of thanks. Hey, it could be worse. Anyway,

The Andover Elementary School wishes to thank the Mead Corporation and its Safety Voucher Program for the very generous gift of $1,500. The money was used to purchase new equipment for the Andover Girls'/Boys' Baseball Farm Team and the Andover Girls' Softball Farm Team. Mead's support of its surrounding communities and children is truly appreciated by the kids of Andover. Without this money, these purchases would not have been possible. The school is still collecting Campbell Soup labels and General Food box tops. Just a reminder.

Thanks to Evelyn and Richard Bodemer of Andover for their donation of an American flag for the Town Common.

Speaking of the Town Common, the new commemorative stone for Andover's Civil War Volunteers is now in place with the names on it. All 72 are there; I know, I counted. It looks really great, and here is a list of the people to thank: Don and Doris French, Marshall Meisner, Steve Swasey, Freeman Farrington, Marty Morgan, Richard Pelletier, William Swan, Roger Mills. It took a lot of thought, work and money to make this happen and the above are responsible. The Town thanks you all.

There will be a GED Preparation class on Wednesdays from 6 to 8 p.m. at the Andover School starting Sept. 13 taught by Carol Emery. New students, age 17 and older who are not enrolled in high school may join at any time. Call the Adult Education office at 824-2780 to sign up.

By now you should all have gotten your new dump stickers in the mail along with your new tax bill. If you are a resident, but not a taxpayer, you have to come over to the Town Office to get your new green sticker. They are available during regular business hours. If you threw it away by mistake, and that's already happened to one very observant soul, we will be glad to give OXFORD COUNTY FAIRGROUNDS has a new sign made by Mickey Liimatta of West Paris that is located on Route 26 by the signal light by Ames. Elias McKeen of West Paris and Rupert Grover of Norway and Bethel are shown hanging the sign to help show the way to the new entrance for the fairgrounds. The sign was installed so that it can be taken down every fall and put back up in the spring. The fair started Sept. 13 and will run through Sept. 16 with many new entertainments this year.

If one lives in a valley beside a river, there is a season talking to him all the year. The brook or

I swear that I live in a zoo and everybody knows about it except me. Last Wednesday afternoon my mother and I took a trip to Rumford. On the way there we had to wait for three, mind you three, wild turkeys to cross the road, and on the way home we had to wait for a baby bear. It was very cute, and I hope its mamma was about somewhere, because he/she was way too young to be on its own. Hope nobody shot her.

I want to welcome Norma Planter back home. She has moved back to East Andover, and I have only one thing to say to her. Are you crazy? Just kidding.

My mother wants me to let you all know that she washed clothes three times a week instead of just once. She also made bread on every washday. Okay, Ma?

Rally Day, the official start of this year's Sunday School at the Calvary Congregational Church, was a huge success. It's still not too late to register to attend.

The word of the week is gyve. Look it up. See ya.

which decorates the field.

It is very natural to see the school bus go by again, but it is hard to believe it is school time.

We are so glad to have Milton and Eleanor back home from Alaska. They had a nice trip and a good vacation.

Rena Curtis went camping with her family over the holiday weekend.

Robert Holt from Windsor visited his parents, Leonas and Fay Holt, two days this week. He also came to visit me.

Thirty-five people attended a goodbye gathering at Country Way Restaurant in South Paris on Aug. 11 for Gloria Redman to give her best wishes and to say "goodbye." Gloria has sold her house in Greenwood and is moving to Colorado to be near her two daughters. She arrived, with her daughters and her two cats, in Colorado on Aug. 30. She had a good flight and we are all sure she is happy to have the move behind her. Gloria and Wayne were in the area 23 years. She lost him two and a half years ago.

Sherri Poland and her mother, Tommy, along with Dee Beck and her mother, Ginny, went on a boat ride starting at Boothbay Harbor. The boat took them to Cabbage Island, where they had a bountiful meal of lobster, clams, corn, fish chowder, blueberry cake and other goodies. It was a nice day, and they all had a wonderful time. Sounds good to me.

Earlier this month they all went on a trolley bus around Portland, where historical and other places of interest were pointed out to them. At the end of the tour, everyone went to DeMillo's for lunch.

Danielle Appleby brought her baby down, as I had not been able to see it as yet. James is about a month old now and a real cutie. His grandparents, Pete and Laurene Appleby, and his father, James, also came for the visit.

Murill Blazier has a dog now. It is a cute, little black one and his name is Elvis.

We have had a lot of goldfinches lately. Most are still very bright yellow; they will change color in the late fall.

Florence Merrill had a sale at the Union Church last week.

Fall has arrived. Fall is my favorite time of year, as the air is still quite warm, but not hot (usually). The only thing I don't like about fall is that it means many months of winter just ahead.

Happy Birthday to all those celebrating in September. They are: Ricky Mack, Walter Appleby III, Amy Merrill, Dotte Critser, Patrice Dunn, Randi Mack, Maude Alice Hadley, Samantha Poland, Troy Ryerson, Joshua Appleby, Linda Smith, Darlene Hadley, Hazel Dillingham, Linnie Roberts, Goldie Mason, Lloyd Poland, Alan Hadley, Leon Verrill, Cathy Mason, Ernie Yap, Florence Watson. Special birthday wishes go to my son, Rich Wing, and grandson, Doug Wing.

HE HAS AN EYE FOR DESIGN

Meet Tim Frank, managing editor for design at the Sun Journal. He creates many of the graphics that highlight our stories and has received a number of top awards for his work. This year, the Sun Journal was named one of the "World's Best-Designed" newspapers, thanks in large part to the efforts of Tim Frank. So, the next time you look at the paper and some graphic of his draws your eye, take a closer look. We think — like Tim — it's some of the best.

13 Million Transmissions Fail Every Year

Is Yours NEXT?
It might be unless you've had a transmission flush during the last 15,000 miles. And not the "traditional" transmission service that replaces only about 30 percent of the fluid in the transmission. To maintain the quality and longevity of today's cars, it requires a more thorough flush than ever before - one that can get to old fluid trapped inside areas such as the torque converter, clutch drums and valve body.

TRANSTECH is the Fast, Full Service Transmission System perfect for today's cars and trucks. It's the best way to a better driving experience. It takes just 15 minutes for a TRANSTECH service to replace virtually every drop of fluid in your transmission system. Afterwards, you'll notice the difference: smoother shifting, increased performance - all in all, a better driving experience. For more information, ask your service representative about the TRANSTECH difference today!

NEW FLUID Protects the sophisticated machinery in today's transmissions. It helps to reduce component failure, improve performance and increase vehicle longevity.
US.
OLD FLUID As fluid ages, contaminants build up, viscosity breaks down and your car's transmission is let vulnerable to breakdowns - even from daily wear and tear.

Card of Thanks

To those who attended the wet, yet, happy 50th Anniversary party of Pat & Richard Kimball, much love and many thanks. Thank you for the gifts, love and most of all your weather-bearing presence.

Special thanks to the children as well, for their determination to throw an all-around wonderful reunion of old friends and family. A memory to be cherished for the rest of time.

All our love,
Pat & Richard Kimball
